Reports:

In ABAP, there are total of 7 types of reports. They are:

- Classical
- Interactive
- Logical Database
- ABAP query
- ALV Reports (ALV stands for ABAP List Viewer)
- Report Writer/Report Painter
- Views (There are different types of views also)

Classical Reports

These are the simplest reports. Programmers learn this one first. It is just an output of data using the Write statement inside a loop.

- Classical reports are normal reports. These reports are not having any sub reports. IT IS HAVING ONLY ONE SCREEN/LIST FOR OUTPUT.

Events In Classical Reports.

- INITIALIZATION: This event triggers before selection screen display.
- AT-SELECTION-SCREEN: This event triggers after processing user input still selection screen is in active mode.
- START OF SELECTION: Start of selection screen triggers after processing selection screen.

END-OF-SELECTION: It is for Logical Database Reporting.

Event blocks are introduced by an event keyword. They end when the next processing block begins. The following processing block can either be an event block or another processing block allowed in this context – for example, a subroutine or a dialog module. Event keywords have the same name as the events to which they react.
